

July 2002

Catomance Technologies moves to new site

Catomance Technologies Ltd has completed its relocation to Stevenage in North Hertfordshire.

Within modern facilities, the company's new purpose-built laboratories have been designed to provide a comprehensive technical service to its customers in the textile industry around the World. New facilities have also been installed to support Catomance's growing business in the antimicrobials market.

Conveniently located near the motorway network, Catomance's new site also has fast links to three of London's international airports at Heathrow, Stansted and Luton.

